ABOUT $40,000 IN THE STATE ROAD FUND

Jefferson City, June 30.—In a legal communication to State Auditor Gordon today, Attorney General Major has undertaken to straighten out the tangles connected with the state road funds, together with the effect the governor's veto of some of the methods of disturbing these funds makes. The attorney general contends that in the end it will not make much difference to most of the counties which way the funds are distributed, and whether the swamp tax funds are dumped into another fund, or are distributed on their own basis. He, however, points out a line of duty for the auditor to follow.

There is not a county in the state but has a direct interest in these funds. Many counties have claims long since due against the fund.

Nodaway county has one claim against the road fund for $1,000. Her pro rata of $40,000 will be very small, probably not over $100.

Shenandoah, Ia., July 1.—Shenandoah won the second game of the series with the Comets yesterday by a score of 11 to 5. Oswalt went up in the third, the umpire, Kissane, probably being the cause of it. Shenandoah in this inning had scored three runs and there were two out. Wells, a Shenandoah player, was on third and attempted to steal home, but was caught at least ten or fifteen feet from the plate. But the umpire didn't see the play at all and called him safe. This unfair decision took all of the ginger out of Oswalt, and six more scores were made in this inning before the third out. Jans took Oswalt's place in the fourth and only one score was made the rest of the game.

Three home runs were secured by the Comets. One by Griffin in the eighth, and one by Cook in the fourth bringing in Sackett. Then another home run by "Buiger" Walsh in that inning.

A party from Maryville composed of W. C. Pierce, E. H. Bainum, Noble Covey and Fred Hull saw the game. All of the party declared that the umpire's decision in the third was the rankest ever given at a ball game. Beltz, the new pitcher from Springfield, will pitch in today's game.

RE-ELECTED BY STATE MUSIC TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

WAS A GOOD MEETING

Association Has Grown During the Past Year—H. B. Schuler Secretary-Treasurer.

Prof. P. O. Landon returned Saturday morning from St. Louis, where he has been attending the Missouri State Music Teachers' association, of which he was re-elected president. Prof. Landon was elected president last year, and was nominated for re-election this year by the nominating committee. He withdrew his name from the list, whereupon he was put out of the chair and his re-election was forced upon him. The other officers elected were: Mr. James F. Quarles, organist of the Lindell Avenue M. E.

PROF. P. O. LANDON, Who Was Again Selected as President of the State Music Teachers' Association.

church, St. Louis, vice president, and H. B. Schuler of Trenton, secretary-treasurer, the latter being re-elected.

In speaking of the association, Prof. Landon said that it was one of the most successful in years in every way. The program was excellent and of high standard, and included a concert, all of the numbers of which were written by Missouri composers, and an excursion on the river as the guests of the Mingle Piano company.

When Prof. Landon and Prof. Schuler took charge of the association a year ago the membership was less than one hundred, and the association was in debt. There were two hundred members at this year's convention, and there is a balance of between two and three hundred dollars in the treasury over all debts, both this year's and last.

A committee, of which Prof. Wm. Solomon, the musical director of the Warrensburg State Normal, is chairman, will meet with the legislature for the purpose of having a law passed making the study of music compulsory in all of the public schools of the state.

Next year's convention will probably be held in Kansas City.

SET FIRE TO CHURCH

OF WHICH REV. HENRY HEPBURN IS PASTOR IN CHICAGO.

WAS WORK OF THUGS

Whose Vile Practices Had Called Forth Denunciation and Active Measures by the Minister.

The following article from the Aurora (Ill.) Daily Beacon of June 27, concerning the attempted burning of the Buena Memorial Presbyterian church of Chicago, of which Rev. Henry Hepburn is the pastor, will be of interest to that minister's friends in this county, as he is a native Nodawayan, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Hepburn of Hopkins, and a brother of Mrs. D. E. Hotchkiss of this city.

Rev. Hepburn and son, Malcolm, left Hopkins Friday evening for their home in Chicago, after a two days' visit with his parents, brothers and sisters, who gathered at the old home Friday for a family reunion. He had been at Parkville, Mo., to attend the Park college commencement, as a member of the board of trustees.

The account of the attempted arson is as follows:

Rev. Henry Hepburn, until recently pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Aurora, saved members of his church from possible death or serious injury Sunday when an attempt was made to burn down the church of which he is pastor, the Buena Memorial Presbyterian church in Chicago. Thugs and hoodlums who have invaded the Wilson park bathing beach and against whom the former Aurora minister has been warring, are held responsible for the attempted arson.

The church auditorium was crowded Sunday evening and Rev. Hepburn was just in the middle of his sermon when an odor of smoke was noticed. Fielding I. Marshall, who was seated near the front of the church, left his seat and went into the church parlor. When he opened the door a great cloud of black smoke puffed out into the auditorium.

Parishioners jumped from their seats and the entire congregation was in a panic. Remaining cool, Rev. Hepburn appealed to the frightened worshippers' reason, telling them to remain in their seats. The cry of their pastor seemed to reassure every person in the congregation. Turning they went back to their seats and remained while the black smoke continued to pour out of the parlor.

In the meantime Marshall rushed into the smoke filled room and found a large cotton bale, soaked with oil and burning fiercely. He picked it up and threw it out of the window into the street. Pails of water were got and the fire on the carpet was extinguished.

The attempt to burn Rev. Hepburn's church is believed by the police to have been made by hangers-on at the beach who are angered at him because of his activity in the vice crusade.

ECONOMY OF GOOD ROADS.

The economic loss due to bad roads is beyond computation and the indifference of the general public toward any projected improvement of our highways is not easily understood.

Of our public works the condition of none reflects our business status more accurately than the condition of our highways. To make good roads so that products of the farm are easily and quickly brought to this market is to increase the value of every farm along those roads and is practically to increase the farmers' facilities and lessen their expense.

If every citizen could see in actual money the financial return on his investment in good roads he would contribute his share hereafter with alacrity. He has drained the swamps on his land and converted them into arable land. He has bought improved farm implements—he has, in fact, adopted all modern methods—in order to increase the productivity of his land. But the marketing of his farm products is still seriously hindered by defective highways. The actual returns on any investment in improving the roads to market are just as direct and even more prompt than are those from farm draining and improved farming methods.

In these days of automobilizing good roads open up a much wider range of vision for the rural inhabitants and the same conditions that enable our residents to visit other sections induce residents of other communities to visit this locality. This intercommunication results in a kind of advertising that inevitably increases the value of property by bringing in desirable purchasers. In fact, the results accruing from the building of good roads comprise an endless chain of benefits to the community that builds the roads.—Clinton County Democrat.

LINEBAUGH CASE TO BE CONCLUDED MONDAY

Circuit court adjourned Saturday afternoon about 3 o'clock until Monday morning. As the Linebaugh will contest case could not be finished during the afternoon, an adjournment was taken on account of the hot weather. Many witnesses have been examined throughout the trial, and there are several more yet to be examined.

The defense expects to get through about Monday noon and then the arguments of the attorneys to the jury will commence. The case will probably go to the jury Monday evening.

T. J. Rogers, who wrote the Jacob Linebaugh will, was on the stand during the greater part of today. He told about the writing of the will and stated that the aged man seemed to be of sound mind. A few other witnesses were on the stand and told of business deals they had with Jacob Linebaugh a year or so before his death, and told of how good a business man he was.

The Linebaugh case is probably the biggest will case that has ever been tried in this part of the state, as the amount involved is about $300,000. The case is being hotly contested.

DOZEN BANDITS ROB MAIL TRAIN

Three Trainmen Injured In Fight With Masked Men.

RIFLE MAIL AND EXPRESS CARS

Big Pile of Ties and Telegraph Poles Stop Engine Near Erie and Thieves Get Away With Choice of Valuable Packages.

Erie, Pa., July 1.—The Philadelphia and Erie fast mail and passenger train due here at 10:10 o'clock was held up last night five miles from this city by twelve masked men. The mail and express cars were stripped of their valuables and C. H. Block of Erie, Pa., mail clerk; H. D. Rooney of Erie, conductor, and C. F. Bemis, brakeman, were injured.

Block was shot in the right side and was taken to a hospital dying. Rooney received serious injuries when he was hit with a stone thrown by a robber, and Bemis was shot in the arm.

A big pile of ties and telegraph poles stopped the train and several of the passengers alighted to ascertain the trouble. They drew the fire of the robbers and there was a stampede back to the cars.

Almost before the train reached the obstruction the masked bandits had taken positions at practically every entrance to the cars. When the passengers began pouring from the train they were commanded to get back into the cars. When several excited passengers failed to obey the bandits opened fire. They shot along the sides of the cars, level with the windows, and this put an end to the curiosity of the passengers. Within the cars was a panic. Several women fainted, while the screams of others caused confusion.

When the train stopped Engineer Carey and his fireman climbed down to investigate. They were immediately compelled to get back in the cab. Two of the robbers then climbed aboard and kept guard over them.

Block, the mail clerk, thrust his head from the door of his car and began firing. He was met by a volley from the pistols of the robbers and fell shot through the side. In a moment several of the masked men were in the car ripping mail bags open.

C. F. Bemis, brakeman, rushed from one of the coaches into the mail car. He had scarcely reached the door when he received a bullet through his arm. The robbers then kicked Bemis out of the car.

Conductor Rooney fired four shots at the men, all the cartridges he had in his revolver, without any apparent effect. One of the bandits hurled a stone at Rooney. It struck him and he dropped.

With all the members of the crew either injured or under guard, the robbers rifled the cars. The amount of booty secured may be large.

CONGRESS TAKES RECESS

Reciprocity Will Now Rest Until After Fourth of July.

Washington, July 1.—The Canadian reciprocity situation cleared to a marked degree and a canvass of the situation in the senate was in every way assuring to the friends of the measure. With not more than a dozen set speeches in prospect, many of the senators count upon a vote before the end of July.

After three hours of anti-reciprocity speech-making by Senators Gamble and Cummins, there was an understanding that there would be no further effort at legislation until after July 4 and that when business is resumed there will be no cessation until final adjournment. There was a brief session of both houses today, but only to meet the constitutional prohibition against either body adjourning for more than three days at a time without the other's consent. The recess will continue until July 5.

Roof of New Water Station at Buffalo, N. Y., Collapses.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 1.—Five workmen were crushed to death and four others seriously injured in the collapse of the roof and other portions of the Buffalo water department's new pumping station. The dead were buried in a pit where they were working beneath hundreds of tons of steel, brick and mortar.

Most of the injured were at work on the roof, which was 300 feet long and 100 feet wide. About 200 feet of this suddenly fell in from some cause not yet determined.

One of the injured died in an ambulance and two died at hospitals, making with those supposed to have been killed in the wreckage, a total of eight dead.

Sixty Persons Injured During Panic, Which Followed Explosion of Bomb.

Madrid, July 1.—The government censor stopped all news dispatches filed with the telegraph companies which described disorders in connection with the anarchist procession.

road, have been trying for weeks to have the beach closed. Recently a woman was attacked and left lying unconscious in an alley. Youths who hang around the beach were charged with the crime, but the guilty ones were never found out.

Rev. Hepburn and other ministers in the neighborhood began a preaching campaign in their churches after the attack on the woman, and every effort was being made to have the beach closed. The attempt to burn Rev. Hepburn's church resulted. Oil soaked rags were also found in two other churches in the neighborhood Sunday night, but they were not lighted.

A strange man was found in the parlor of the Buena Memorial church early Sunday evening by the janitor. He explained that he was looking for the Methodist church and that he got into the wrong building. A few minutes later he was again found in the room, and this time said he was looking for a drink of water. He is believed to have been the man who set fire to the oil-soaked cotton.

INSPECTED THE NORMAL SCHOOL BUILDING

A little black and tan dog trotted through the open doors of the Normal Friday morning and started on a tour of the building. A number of the people in the building noticed him and saw him start up the east stairway. A moment later there was a thud and a yelp of pain, and the dog was seen lying on the ground beneath an open three and a half story window. One or two persons who saw the dog fall accused a carpenter who was working on the stairway of throwing the dog out of the window, but he denied this, saying the animal jumped out. No one has much to say about it, but they do not think it likely that the dog would jump out of a three story window, the sill of which is two feet from the floor and about eighteen inches broad.

The suffering animal was carried over to a quiet corner and some ether was brought to put it out of its misery. It was not administered, however, and the dog was allowed to lie there and die or get well as best it might. It tried to walk away later on, but could scarcely drag the hinder portion of its body.

The workmen have complained lately of the dogs which came into the building and interfered with their work. It is a condition that is hard to stop, as the building is open all through the day, and a dog cannot be expected to know it is not wanted inside. Perhaps the dog was running under the workman's feet and getting in his way. If such was the case it was not necessary to throw the animal out of the window in order to get rid of it, and a person who did such a thing should be dealt with by the law.

The Patriotism of Peter

A Little Love Story For the Fourth.

By TEMPLE BAILEY.

"Oh, my goodness!" said Annette. "I thought you had more patriotism, Peter."

Peter stretched his languid length in the great wicker chair on the other side of the tea table from which Annette dispensed afternoon hospitality in her rose garden.

"Dear girl," he asked, "who can measure patriotism? Because I won't march in a parade with a lot of buff and blue idiots you choose to say that I do not love my country."

"Arnold Adams is not an idiot," Annette interrupted.

Peter's eyes narrowed. "Then Arnold Adams parades, does he, and makes a speech to the accompaniment of appropriate fireworks?"

"He makes his speech in the afternoon," Annette vouchsafed. "Every one seems eager to help me out with my Fourth of July garden party but you."

"Dear girl, I'll come and pass cake and listen to the Declaration, but I can't parade in costume."

"Well, the men all look lovely in their new uniforms," Annette informed him.

"Somehow," said Peter, "a uniform is associated in my mind with service. There are the old regimentals of my great-grandfather, all stained with mud, and the faded blue cape that my father keeps in memory of Gettysburg is blotched with red." He shrugged his shoulders. "But it's too hot this weather to dress up for nothing."

"Nothing—oh!" Annette flung out her hands. "I don't believe you'd fight if there was a war, Peter."

Peter leaned across the table. "Considering my ancestry," he said slowly, "is there any reason you should think that?"

"Modern men haven't any backbone," she teased.

"Don't go too far," he told her. "My idea of love of country is something deeper than mere shouting for freedom."

"Love of country is courage," she said.

"You mean?" he demanded.

"That I'm disappointed in you, Peter." Her eyes blazed. "I believe you're too lazy to carry a gun."

"Stop!" he thundered and stood up. Annette stood up too. She slipped from her finger a wonderful hoop of diamonds.

"There," she said, "take it. If you loved me you would see my point of view. It isn't that I want you to wear blue and buff; I want you to show your patriotism."

"Ah—patriotism!" Peter picked up the ring. "If you ever want this again you must ask for it, Annette. I am afraid that otherwise I can never forgive the woman who has called me coward."

"I shall never ask for it!" she blazed as Peter turned on his heel and left her.

When the great day came Annette tried to interest herself in the decorations, the refreshments, in Arnold Adams, who, looking very handsome in his colonial uniform, hung over her, and when he made his speech his eyes were on her.

Annette didn't like his speech. It smacked of artificiality. There was in it so much of stars and stripes and was crouched in a heap as Adams brought the big machine to a stop. "Oh, I thought you would be killed, Peter!"

Peter, with the screaming child in his arms, smiled at her. "It was nothing," he said.

"I should have thought you would have been afraid," Annette began.

Peter stiffened. "You seem to think that I am always afraid," he said, and before she could answer he lifted his hat and was gone.

All that evening she watched for her lover, but he did not come. At last she could stand it no longer. She sat down at the lemonade table and talked it over with her most intimate girl friend.

"Lucy," she said, "I've been hateful to Peter. What shall I do?"

"Eat humble pie," advised Lucy.

"Peter's worth it."

"I know," Annette admitted, "but I don't know where he is."

"Wait till he shows up," said Lucy.

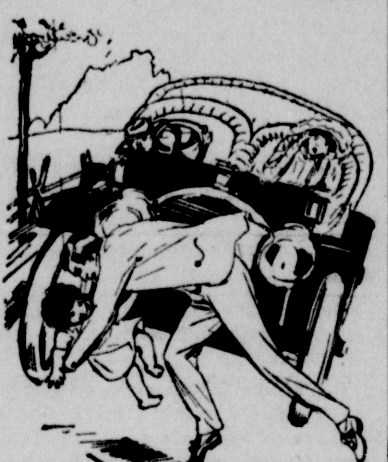

"And in the meantime we'll make Arnold Adams take us down the river road in his car."

They passed the big canneries, where many Italians were employed; passed, too, the squalid little settlement where in a big open space a crowd of swarthy men and women and children were gathered about a big man in white dannels.

Annette caught her breath. "Why, it's Peter!" she gasped. "Stop a minute and see what he's doing."

As the big motor stood in the shadow of the trees Peter's voice came to them. He was speaking in Italian, and Annette, thanks to three winters in Rome, understood all that he said.

As she listened she felt herself growing smaller and smaller. This was the Peter whom she had accused of lack of patriotism, this man who was speaking so eloquently to these newcomers to his native soil, telling them what it meant to be an American.

"Oh, Peter, Peter!" her heart cried, although her lips were silent.

But when the speech was ended she spoke: "I'm going to get out a minute. I want to see Peter."

Swiftly she walked straight over to the astonished Peter.

"Oh, you wonderful man!" she said, with shining eyes. "I never heard such a speech!"

"Not even Arnold's?" he asked as he led her through the smiling crowd.

"Not even anybody's. Oh, Peter, I want my ring!"

"Dear heart," he murmured as he bent tenderly over her.

The Making of the Flag

HOW did we make the flag?

By rule?

By compass and square and line?

With pattern and thread and the sampler's tool,

To follow the plain design?

Was it only the lore that the draftsman knew

That gave us the red and the white and blue?

How did we make the flag?

Not all

By measuring stitch and seam,

For part of it came from a country call

And part of it is a dream—

Is a vision that led brave souls aright

And gave us the red and the blue and white.

How did we make the flag?

In peace

We fashioned it fold on fold;

In war it was blent with a grim caprice

The drums in their summons rolled.

'Twas the courage alike of the quick and dead

That gave us the blue and the white and red.

How did we make the flag?

'Twas thus

It came to its grace and worth;

Through all that is good in the souls of us

The banner has had its birth.

'Twas the holier strength of the purpose true

That gave us the red and the white and blue.

Thus have we made the flag—

Ah, no!

By colors that will not fade,

By sinuous sweep and by deathless glow,

'Tis us that the flag has made!

And it whispers today to each star told state,

"You must hold me high and must keep me great!"

CONDITION OF COUNTRY SOUND

Dun's Review Makes Statement and Gives Reasons.

IRON AND STEEL TRADE BETTER

Steel Trade Beginning to Expand—Export Commerce Creating Big Surplus—Big Gold Output Continues and Money Is Plentiful.

New York, July 1.—Dun's Weekly Review of Trade says: The best development of the business situation at the opening of the second half of the year is the marked improvement in the iron and steel trade, in which there is a decided increase in confidence and a considerable expansion in actual output.

In view of the important relations which this great trade bears to all the business interests of the country, both industrial and agricultural, this improvement is significant of a distinct change for the better all around.

The condition of the country can be described as sound when its steel trade is beginning to expand, when the export commerce is creating a big surplus in favor of the United States, when the big gold output continues, when money is plentiful, when industrial production is being held to the limits of the consumptive demand, when stocks of merchandise are low on the shelves, when economy, personal and corporate, has been long practiced, and when many of the issues which have been perplexing business men and retarding enterprise are past.

HINES UNDER CROSS-FIRE

He Denies Boasting That He Personally Put Lorimer Over.

Washington, July 1.—Edward Hines of Chicago was subjected to a rigid cross-examination by John H. Marble, attorney for the senate investigating committee.

Mr. Hines contradicted sworn testimony by President Herman H. Hettler of the Hettler Lumber company of Chicago, that Hines had boasted to him of having personally elected Lorimer. He denied that the lumber interests raised a big sum to lobby for tariff legislation in 1909 or that the lumber interests had anything to do with the Lorimer election.

Mr. Hines declared that he was "absolutely certain" he was not mistaken about his testimony that former Senator Aldrich stated to him the president was anxious to have Lorimer elected. Asked about a denial of this from the White House after his testimony at Springfield, Mr. Hines said that such a denial has never been "called to his attention."

The White House statement in question concluded as follows: "The statement by Mr. Hines that the president was anxious for and was urging the election of Mr. Lorimer is wholly unfounded."

PRIME OBJECT OF STEEL TRUST

Big Corporation Organized to Restrict Competition.

MUCH WATER IN THE STOCK.

Commissioner of Corporations Smith Says Capital of $1,402,000,000 Represents Property Worth Only $628,000,000—Controls Ore Properties.

Washington, July 1.—Restriction of competition is declared to have been the prime object of the organizers of the United States Steel corporation, which was capitalized at $1,402,000,000 and had tangible property worth only $628,000,000; the corporation having concentrated its efforts to secure ore properties, now owns 75 per cent of the lake ores, upon which the present steel industry is based. These are some of the conclusions reached in the long expected report of Commissioner of Corporations Herbert Knox Smith on the steel industry.

Discussing in detail how "the impending struggle of the giants" was averted, almost over night, by the formation of the great combination of combinations, taking in 250 subsidiary companies, controlling 60 per cent of the total crude and finished steel production of the country, the report says: "Until 1898 the bulk of the business was distributed among a very considerable number of concerns. There was sharp competition, modified by frequent pools of greater or less duration and effectiveness."

First Era of Combinations.

Then came an era of great combinations, the report continues, with capitalizations ranging from $30,000,000 to $100,000,000, mergers of many small companies, which instead of eliminating competition, threatened to bring price cutting on a larger scale than ever before. In 1899-1900 there were three great companies, the Carnegie company, Federal Steel and National Steel, dominating the production of crude and semi-finished products, and six concerns, the American Steel and Wire, American Tin Plate, American Steel Hcop, American Sheet Steel, National Tube and American Bridge, controlling the lighter finished products.

This was the period when the "struggle of the giants" was impending and when the formation of the United States Steel corporation was conceived and brought about. All nine of the companies named were combined, and later the Union Steel company, the Clairton Steel company and in 1907, the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company were taken over. The promoting syndicate putting the deal through netted $62,500,000 in cash.

During the ten years of its operation, the report says, the steel trust has paid average annual profits of 12 per cent on the money invested.

Independent Output Growing.

Since the corporation has been directing its efforts practically toward acquiring and extending complete control over ore properties, its percentage of production has decreased. As against 50 per cent of all crude and finished production in 1901, the report says, the corporation now has not much over 50 per cent, indicating conclusively the continuous presence of strong and increasing independent production.

However, the commissioner finds that competition, so far as prices are concerned, has been modified by the policy of "co-operation" inaugurated at the "Gary dinners," about which so much has been said before the congressional steel investigation committee.

Control of Ore Properties.

The report concludes as follows: "The dominating position in the ore industry enjoyed by the Steel corporation through this great ownership of ore reserves is heightened because of its very marked degree of control of the transportation of ore in the Lake Superior district. The corporation controls two of the most important ore railroads, the Duluth and Iron Range railroad and the Duluth, Missabe and Northern railway. The ore rates on these railroads are about 1 cent per ton-mile. Their operating expenses are very low, that of the Duluth, Missabe and Northern in 1910 being below 30 per cent of gross earnings as against an average of 66 per cent for all the railroads of the country. The net earnings of these ore railroads, which are chiefly from the ore traffic, are phenomenal. This has the practical effect of reducing the Steel corporation's net cost of ore to itself at upper lake ports and, on the other hand, of increasing that cost to such of its competitors as are dependent upon the corporation's railroads for transportation.

"Hence, not only on account of its great holdings of ore, but also on account of these peculiar advantages enjoyed in the transportation of the ore the Steel corporation occupies an extremely commanding position in the iron and steel industry. Indeed, insofar as the Steel corporation's position is of monopolistic character it is chiefly through its control of ore holdings and the transportation of ore."

The report is the first of three parts of findings by the bureau of corporations in an exhaustive inquiry into the steel industry.

DANDRUFF, FALLING HAIR STOPPED

Harmless, Old-Fashioned Remedy Brings Back Color to Gray Hair and Makes It Grow.

How many old-fashioned remedies are being used, which goes to show that it is hard to improve some of our grandmothers' old-time, tried remedies. For instance, for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy nothing equals our grandmothers' "sage tea." Although, by the addition of sulphur and other ingredients, this old-fashioned brew has been made more effective as a scalp tonic and color restorer.

Nowadays, when our hair comes out or gets faded or gray, instead of going to the garden or garret for herbs and making the "tea" ourselves, we simply go to the nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy.

Druggists are authorized to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special Agent, Koch Pharmacy.

Everybody Knows Something About Lumber Values

these days, but the homebuilder who listens to the cry of "wait until lumber is cheaper" is not apt to be any nearer his goal on his deathbed than he is today. The Government recommends TIMBER CONSERVATION and this alone is proof that lumber has a fixed value.

Our years of experience in buying and selling lumber lead us to advise our friends that NOW'S THE TIME TO BUILD. There's but one crop of timber for most of us. If you contemplate a new home we want to talk with you—we have all grades of lumber. The lowest quality starts at good and goes up. Give us a call and learn the facts about these lumber values.

ABOUT $40,000 IN THE STATE ROAD FUND

Jefferson City, June 30.—In a legal communication to State Auditor Gordon today, Attorney General Major has undertaken to straighten out the tangles connected with the state road funds, together with the effect the governor's veto of some of the methods of distributing these funds makes. The attorney general contends that in the end it will not make much difference to most of the counties which way the funds are distributed, and whether the swamp tax funds are dumped into another fund, or are distributed on their own basis. He, however, points out a line of duty for the auditor to follow.

There is not a county in the state but has a direct interest in these funds. Many counties have claims long since due against the fund.

Nodaway county has one claim against the road fund for $1,000. Her pro rata of $40,000 will be very small, probably not over $100.

Shenandoah, Ia., July 1.—Shenandoah won the second game of the series with the Comets yesterday by a score of 11 to 5. Oswalt went up in the third, the umpire, Kissane, probably being the cause of it. Shenandoah in this inning had scored three runs and there were two out. Wells, a Shenandoah player, was on third and attempted to steal home, but was caught at least ten or fifteen feet from the plate. But the umpire didn't see the play at all and called him safe. This unfair decision took all of the ginger out of Oswalt, and six more scores were made in this inning before the third out. Jans took Oswalt's place in the fourth and only one score was made the rest of the game.

Three home runs were secured by the Comets. One by Griffin in the eighth, and one by Cook in the fourth bringing in Sackett. Then another home run by "Bulger" Walsh in that inning.

A party from Maryville composed of W. C. Pierce, E. H. Bainum, Noble Covey and Fred Hull saw the game. All of the party declared that the umpire's decision in the third was the rankest ever given at a ball game.

Beltz, the new pitcher from Springfield, will pitch in today's game.

RE-ELECTED BY STATE MUSIC TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

WAS A GOOD MEETING

Association Has Grown During the Past Year—H. B. Schuler Secretary-Treasurer.

Prof. P. O. Landon returned Saturday morning from St. Louis, where he has been attending the Missouri State Music Teachers' association, of which he was re-elected president. Prof. Landon was elected president last year, and was nominated for re-election this year by the nominating committee. He withdrew his name from the list, whereupon he was put out of the chair and his re-election was forced upon him. The other officers elected were: Mr. James F. Quarles, organist of the Lindell Avenue M. E.

PROF. P. O. LANDON,
Who Was Again Selected as President of the State Music Teachers' Association.

church, St. Louis, vice president, and H. B. Schuler of Trenton, secretary-treasurer, the latter being re-elected.

In speaking of the association, Prof. Landon said that it was one of the most successful in years in every way. The program was excellent and of high standard, and included a concert, all of the numbers of which were written by Missouri composers, and an excursion on the river as the guests of the Mengle Piano company.

When Prof. Landon and Prof. Schuler took charge of the association a year ago the membership was less than one hundred, and the association was in debt. There were two hundred members at this year's convention, and there is a balance of between two and three hundred dollars in the treasury over all debts, both this year's and last.

A committee, of which Prof. Wm. Solomon, the musical director of the Warrensburg State Normal, is chairman, will meet with the legislature for the purpose of having a law passed making the study of music compulsory in all of the public schools of the state.

Next year's convention will probably be held in Kansas City.

SET FIRE TO CHURCH

OF WHICH REV. HENRY HEPBURN IS PASTOR IN CHICAGO.

WAS WORK OF THUGS

Whose Vile Practices Had Called Forth Denunciation and Active Measures by the Minister.

The following article from the Aurora (Ill.) Daily Beacon of June 27, concerning the attempted burning of the Buena Memorial Presbyterian church of Chicago, of which Rev. Henry Hepburn is the pastor, will be of interest to that minister's friends in this county, as he is a native Nodawayan, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Hepburn of Hopkins, and a brother of Mrs. D. E. Hotchkiss of this city.

Rev. Hepburn and son, Malcolm, left Hopkins Friday evening for their home in Chicago, after a two days' visit with his parents, brothers and sisters, who gathered at the old home Friday for a family reunion. He had been at Parkville, Mo., to attend the Park college commencement, as a member of the board of trustees.

The account of the attempted arson is as follows:

Rev. Henry Hepburn, until recently pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Aurora, saved members of his church from possible death or serious injury Sunday when an attempt was made to burn down the church of which he is pastor, the Buena Memorial Presbyterian church in Chicago. Thugs and hoodlums who have invaded the Wilson park bathing beach and against whom the former Aurora minister has been warring, are held responsible for the attempted arson.

The church auditorium was crowded Sunday evening and Rev. Hepburn was just in the middle of his sermon when an odor of smoke was noticed. Fielding I. Marshall, who was seated near the front of the church, left his seat and went into the church parlor. When he opened the door a great cloud of black smoke puffed out into the auditorium.

Parishioners jumped from their seats and the entire congregation was in a panic. Remaining cool, Rev. Hepburn appealed to the frightened worshippers' reason, telling them to remain in their seats. The cry of their pastor seemed to reassure every person in the congregation. Turning they went back to their seats and remained while the black smoke continued to pour out of the parlor.

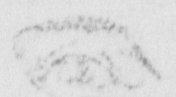

In the meantime Marshall rushed into the smoke filled room and found a large cotton bale, soaked with oil and burning fiercely. He picked it up and threw it out of the window into the street. Falls of water were got and the fire on the carpet was extinguished.

The attempt to burn Rev. Hepburn's church is believed by the police to have been made by hangers-on at the beach who are angered at him because of his activity in the vice crusade.

ECONOMY OF GOOD ROADS.

The economic loss due to bad roads is beyond computation and the indifference of the general public toward any projected improvement of our highways is not easily understood.

Of our public works the condition of none reflects our business status more accurately than the condition of our highways. To make good roads so that products of the farm are easily and quickly brought to this market is to increase the value of every farm along those roads and is practically to increase the farmers' facilities and lessen their expense.

If every citizen could see in actual money the financial return on his investment in good roads he would contribute his share hereafter with alacrity. He has drained the swamps on his land and converted them into arable land. He has bought improved farm implements—he has, in fact, adopted all modern methods—in order to increase the productiveness of his land. But the marketing of his farm products is still seriously hindered by defective highways. The actual returns on any investment in improving the roads to market are just as direct and even more prompt than are those from farm draining and improved farming methods.

In these days of automobilizing good roads open up a much wider range of vision for the rural inhabitants and the same conditions that enable our residents to visit other sections induce residents of other communities to visit this locality. This intercommunication results in a kind of advertising that inevitably increases the value of property by bringing in desirable purchasers. In fact, the results accruing from the building of good roads comprise an endless chain of benefits to the community that builds the roads.—Clinton County Democrat.

LINEBAUGH CASE TO BE CONCLUDED MONDAY

Circuit court adjourned Saturday afternoon about 3 o'clock until Monday morning. As the Linebaugh will contest case could not be finished during the afternoon, an adjournment was taken on account of the hot weather. Many witnesses have been examined throughout the trial, and there are several more yet to be examined.

The defense expects to get through about Monday noon and then the arguments of the attorneys to the jury will commence. The case will probably go to the jury Monday evening.

T. J. Rogers, who wrote the Jacob Linebaugh will, was on the stand during the greater part of today. He told about the writing of the will and stated that the aged man seemed to be of sound mind. A few other witnesses were on the stand and told of business deals they had with Jacob Linebaugh a year or so before his death, and told of how good a business man he was.

The Linebaugh case is probably the biggest will case that has ever been tried in this part of the state, as the amount involved is about $300,000. The case is being hotly contested.

DOZEN BANDITS ROB MAIL TRAIN

Three Trainmen Injured In Fight
With Masked Men.

RIFLE MAIL AND EXPRESS CARS

Big Pile of Ties and Telegraph Poles
Stop Engine Near Erie and Thieves
Get Away With Choice of Valuable Packages.

Erie, Pa., July 1.—The Philadelphia and Erie fast mail and passenger train due here at 10:10 o'clock was held up last night five miles from this city by twelve masked men. The mail and express cars were stripped of their valuables and C. H. Block of Erie, Pa., mail clerk; H. D. Rooney of Erie, conductor, and C. F. Bemis, brakeman, were injured.

Block was shot in the right side and was taken to a hospital dying. Rooney received serious injuries when he was hit with a stone thrown by a robber, and Bemis was shot in the arm.

A big pile of ties and telegraph poles stopped the train and several of the passengers alighted to ascertain the trouble. They drew the fire of the robbers and there was a stampede back to the cars.

Almost before the train reached the obstruction the masked bandits had taken positions at practically every entrance to the cars. When the passengers began pouring from the train they were commanded to get back into the cars. When several excited passengers failed to obey the bandits opened fire. They shot along the sides of the cars, level with the windows, and this put an end to the curiosity of the passengers. Within the cars was a panic. Several women fainted, while the screams of others caused confusion.

When the train stopped Engineer Carey and his fireman climbed down to investigate. They were immediately compelled to get back in the cab. Two of the robbers then climbed aboard and kept guard over them.

Block, the mail clerk, thrust his head from the door of his car and began firing. He was met by a volley from the pistols of the robbers and fell shot through the side. In a moment several of the masked men were in the car ripping mail bags open.

C. F. Bemis, brakeman, rushed from one of the coaches into the mail car. He had scarcely reached the door when he received a bullet through his arm. The robbers then kicked Bemis out of the car.

Conductor Rooney fired four shots at the men, all the cartridges he had in his revolver, without any apparent effect. One of the bandits buried a stone at Rooney. It struck him and he dropped.

With all the members of the crew either injured or under guard, the robbers rifled the cars. The amount of booty secured may be large.

CONGRESS TAKES RECESS

Reciprocity Will Now Rest Until After Fourth of July.

Washington, July 1.—The Canadian reciprocity situation cleared to a marked degree and a canvass of the situation in the senate was in every way assuring to the friends of the measure. With not more than a dozen set speeches in prospect, many of the senators count upon a vote before the end of July.

After three hours of anti-reciprocity speech-making by Senators Gamble and Cummins, there was an understanding that there would be no further effort at legislation until after July 4 and that when business is resumed there will be no cessation until final adjournment. There was a brief session of both houses today, but only to meet the constitutional inhibition against either body adjourning for more than three days at a time without the other's consent. The recess will continue until July 5.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 1.—Five workmen were crushed to death and four others seriously injured in the collapse of the roof and other portions of the Buffalo water department's new pumping station. The dead were buried in a pit where they were working beneath hundreds of tons of steel, brick and mortar.

Most of the injured were at work on the roof, which was 300 feet long and 100 feet wide. About 200 feet of this suddenly fell in from some cause not yet determined.

One of the injured died in an ambulance and two died at hospitals, making with those supposed to have been killed in the wreckage, a total of eight dead.

road, have been trying for weeks to have the beach closed. Recently a woman was attacked and left lying unconscious in an alley. Youths who hang around the beach were charged with the crime, but the guilty ones were never found out.

Rev. Hepburn and other ministers in the neighborhood began a preaching campaign in their churches after the attack on the woman, and every effort was being made to have the beach closed. The attempt to burn Rev. Hepburn's church resulted. Oil soaked rags were also found in two other churches in the neighborhood Sunday night, but they were not lighted.

A strange man was found in the parlor of the Buena Memorial church early Sunday evening by the janitor. He explained that he was looking for the Methodist church and that he got into the wrong building. A few minutes later he was again found in the room, and this time said he was looking for a drink of water. He is believed to have been the man who set fire to the oil-soaked cotton.

INSPECTED THE NORMAL SCHOOL BUILDING

A little black and tan dog trotted through the open doors of the Normal Friday morning and started on a tour of the building. A number of the people in the building noticed him and saw him start up the east stairway. A moment later there was a thud and a yelp of pain, and the dog was seen lying on the ground beneath an open three and a half story window. One or two persons who saw the dog fall accused a carpenter who was working on the stairway of throwing the dog out of the window, but he denied this, saying the animal jumped out. No one has much to say about it, but they do not think it likely that the dog would jump out of a three story window, the sill of which is two feet from the floor and about eighteen inches broad.

The suffering animal was carried over to a quiet corner and some ether was brought to put it out of its misery. It was not administered, however, and the dog was allowed to lie there and die or get well as best it might. It tried to walk away later on, but could scarcely drag the hinder portion of its body.

The workmen have complained lately of the dogs which came into the building and interfered with their work. It is a condition that is hard to stop, as the building is open all through the day, and a dog cannot be expected to know it is not wanted inside. Perhaps the dog was running under the workman's feet and getting in his way. If such was the case it was not necessary to throw the animal out of the window in order to get rid of it, and a person who did such a thing should be dealt with by the law.

The Patriotism of Peter

A Little Love Story For the Fourth.

By TEMPLE BAILEY.

"Oh, my goodness!" said Annette. "I thought you had more patriotism, Peter."

Peter stretched his languid length in the great wicker chair on the other side of the tea table from which Annette dispensed afternoon hospitality in her rose garden.

"Dear girl," he asked, "who can measure patriotism? Because I won't march in a parade with a lot of buff and blue idiots you choose to say that I do not love my country."

"Arnold Adams is not an idiot," Annette interrupted.

Peter's eyes narrowed. "Then Arnold Adams parades, does he, and makes a speech to the accompaniment of appropriate fireworks?"

"He makes his speech in the afternoon," Annette vouchsafed. "Every one seems eager to help me out with my Fourth of July garden party but you."

"Dear girl, I'll come and pass cake and listen to the Declaration, but I can't parade in costume."

"Well, the men all look lovely in their new uniforms," Annette informed him.

"Somehow," said Peter, "a uniform is associated in my mind with service. There are the old regimentals of my great-grandfather, all stained with mud, and the faded blue cape that my father keeps in memory of Gettysburg is blotched with red." He shrugged his shoulders. "But it's too hot this weather to dress up for nothing."

"Nothing—oh!" Annette flung out her hands. "I don't believe you'd fight if there was a war, Peter."

Peter leaned across the table. "Considering my ancestry," he said slowly, "is there any reason you should think that?"

"Modern men haven't any backbone," she taunted.

"Don't go too far," he told her. "My idea of love of country is something deeper than mere shouting for freedom."

"Love of country is courage," she said.

"You mean?" he demanded.

"That I'm disappointed in you, Peter." Her eyes blazed. "I believe you're too lazy to carry a gun."

"Stop!" he thundered and stood up.

Annette stood up too. She slipped from her finger a wonderful hoop of diamonds.

"There," she said, "take it. If you loved me you would see my point of view. It isn't that I want you to wear blue and buff; I want you to show your patriotism."

"Ah—patriotism!" Peter picked up the ring. "If you ever want this again you must ask for it, Annette. I am afraid that otherwise I can never forgive the woman who has called me coward."

"I shall never ask for it!" she blazed as Peter turned on his heel and left her.

When the great day came Annette tried to interest herself in the decorations, the refreshments, in Arnold Adams, who, looking very handsome in his colonial uniform, hung over her, and when he made his speech his eyes were on her.

Annette didn't like his speech. It smacked of artificiality. There was in it so much of stars and stripes and was crouched in a heap as Adams brought the big machine to a stop.

"Oh, I thought you would be killed, Peter!"

Peter, with the screaming child in his arms, smiled at her. "It was nothing," he said.

"I should have thought you would have been afraid," Annette began.

Peter stiffened. "You seem to think that I am always afraid," he said, and before she could answer he lifted his hat and was gone.

All that evening she watched for her lover, but he did not come. At last she could stand it no longer. She sat down at the lemonade table and talked it over with her most intimate girl friend.

"Lucy," she said, "I've been hateful to Peter. What shall I do?"

"Eat humble pie," advised Lucy. "Peter's worth it."

"I know," Annette admitted, "but I don't know where he is."

"Wait till he shows up," said Lucy, "and in the meantime we'll make Arnold Adams take us down the river road in his car."

They passed the big canneries, where many Italians were employed; passed, too, the squalid little settlement where in a big open space a crowd of swarthy men and women and children were gathered about a big man in white flannels.

Annette caught her breath. "Why, it's Peter!" she gasped. "Stop a minute and see what he's doing."

As the big motor stood in the shadow of the trees Peter's voice came to them. He was speaking in Italian, and Annette, thanks to three winters in Rome, understood all that he said.

As she listened she felt herself growing smaller and smaller. This was the Peter whom she had accused of lack of patriotism, this man who was speaking so eloquently to these newcomers to his native soil, telling them what it meant to be an American.

The Occasion

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

HURRAH.

"Tis drawing nearer.

The day We celebrate! And there is warning ample.

We won't Have long to wait. No need To tell

The children— They know it. I should say—

For what Have they Seen doing

But waiting For the day? And it is an occasion

To stir The sluggish breast.

The birthday Of a nation That seems To stand the test.

The day Our sturdy fathers Rose up

And signed The pact. The famous Declaration

That made This land A fact.

So let The small boy Holler

And fill the air With sound: It's only once

A twelvemonth The glorious Day comes round.

ACKER.

Left for Their Home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Stamey of Hutchinson, Kan., left Friday evening for St. Joseph. Mr. Stamey had been superintending the work on the State Normal building since it was resumed in April, but since the funds for further work have been again cut off, the work had to discontinue.

Mr. Stamey is a member of the St. Joseph Construction company, of which his brother, John Stamey, is the president. Mrs. Stamey came to Maryville three weeks ago to visit her husband, who made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Godsey while in the city. They are very pleasant people and have made some good friendships here. Their home is at Hutchinson, Kan. They have two little daughters, aged 5 and 7 years.

CONDITION OF COUNTRY SOUND

Dun's Review Makes Statement and Gives Reasons.

IRON AND STEEL TRADE BETTER

Steel Trade Beginning to Expand—Export Commerce Creating Big Surplus—Big Gold Output Continues and Money Is Plentiful.

New York, July 1.—Dun's Weekly Review of Trade says: The best development of the business situation at the opening of the second half of the year is the marked improvement in the iron and steel trade, in which there is a decided increase in confidence and a considerable expansion in actual output.

In view of the important relations which this great trade bears to all the business interests of the country, both industrial and agricultural, this improvement is significant of a distinct change for the better all around.

The condition of the country can be described as sound when its steel trade is beginning to expand, when the export commerce is creating a big surplus in favor of the United States, when the big gold output continues, when money is plentiful, when industrial production is being held to the limits of the consumptive demand, when stocks of merchandise are low on the shelves, when economy, personal and corporate, has been long practiced, and when many of the issues which have been perplexing business men and retarding enterprise are past.

HINES UNDER CROSS-FIRE

He Denies Boasting That He Personally Put Lorimer Over.

Washington, July 1.—Edward Hines of Chicago was subjected to a rigid cross-examination by John H. Marble, attorney for the senate investigating committee.

Mr. Hines contradicted sworn testimony by President Herman H. Hettler of the Hettler Lumber company of Chicago, that Hines had boasted to him of having personally elected Lorimer. He denied that the lumber interests raised a big sum to lobby for tariff legislation in 1909 or that the lumber interests had anything to do with the Lorimer election.

Mr. Hines declared that he was "absolutely certain" he was not mistaken about his testimony that former Senator Aldrich stated to him the president was anxious to have Lorimer elected. Asked about a denial of this from the White House after his testimony at Springfield, Mr. Hines said that such a denial has never been "called to his attention."

The White House statement in question concluded as follows: "The statement by Mr. Hines that the president was anxious for and was urging the election of Mr. Lorimer is wholly unfounded."

James Cowgill May Recover.

St. Louis, July 1.—Philip S. Adams, missing cashier of the Fulton (Mo.) bank, which failed in January, 1902, is legally dead, and the New York Life Insurance company must pay $1,900 to his widow, according to a decision of the St. Louis court of appeals.

PRIME OBJECT OF STEEL TRUST

Big Corporation Organized to Restrict Competition.

MUCH WATER IN THE STOCK.

Commissioner of Corporations Smith Says Capital of $1,402,000,000 Represents Property Worth Only $623,000,000—Controls Ore Properties.

Washington, July 1.—Restriction of competition is declared to have been the prime object of the organizers of the United States Steel corporation, which was capitalized at $1,402,000,000 and had tangible property worth only $632,000,000; the corporation having concentrated its efforts to secure ore properties, now owns 75 per cent of the lake ores, upon which the present steel industry is based. These are some of the conclusions reached in the long expected report of Commissioner of Corporations Herbert Knox Smith on the steel industry.

Discussing in detail how "the impending struggle of the giants" was averted, almost over night, by the formation of the great combination of combinations, taking in 250 subsidiary companies, controlling 69 per cent of the total crude and finished steel production of the country, the report says: "Until 1898 the bulk of the business was distributed among a very considerable number of concerns. There was sharp competition, modified by frequent pools of greater or less duration and effectiveness."

First Era of Combinations.

Then came an era of great combinations, the report continues, with capitalizations ranging from $30,000,000 to $100,000,000, mergers of many small companies, which instead of eliminating competition, threatened to bring price cutting on a larger scale than ever before. In 1899-1900 there were three great companies, the Carnegie company, Federal Steel and National Steel, dominating the production of crude and semi-finished products, and six concerns, the American Steel and Wire, American Tin Plate, American Steel Hoop, American Sheet Steel, National Tube and American Bridge, controlling the lighter finished products.

This was the period when the "struggle of the giants" was impending and when the formation of the United States Steel corporation was conceived and brought about. All nine of the companies named were combined, and later the Union Steel company, the Chardon Steel company and in 1907, the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company were taken over. The promoting syndicate putting the deal through netted $62,500,000 in cash. During the ten years of its operation, the report says, the steel trust has paid average annual profits of 12 per cent on the money invested.

Independent Output Growing.

Since the corporation has been directing its efforts practically toward acquiring and extending complete control over ore properties, its percentage of production has decreased. As against 60 per cent of all crude and finished production in 1901, the report says, the corporation now has not much over 50 per cent, indicating conclusively the continuous presence of strong and increasing independent production. However, the commissioner finds that competition, so far as prices are concerned, has been modified by the policy of "co-operation" inaugurated at the "Gary dinners," about which so much has been said before the congressional steel investigation committee.

Control of Ore Properties.

The report concludes as follows: "The dominating position in the ore industry enjoyed by the Steel corporation through this great ownership of ore reserves is heightened because of its very marked degree of control of the transportation of ore in the Lake Superior district. The corporation controls two of the most important ore railroads, the Duluth and Iron Range railroad and the Duluth, Missabe and Northern railway. The ore rates on these railroads are about 1 cent per ton mile. Their operating expenses are very low, that of the Duluth, Missabe and Northern in 1910 being below 30 per cent of gross earnings as against an average of 66 per cent for all the railroads of the country. The net earnings of these ore railroads, which are chiefly from the ore traffic, are phenomenal. This has the practical effect of reducing the Steel corporation's net cost of ore to itself at upper lake ports and, on the other hand, of increasing that cost to such of its competitors as are dependent upon the corporation's railroads for transportation."

"Hence, not only on account of its great holdings of ore, but also on account of these peculiar advantages enjoyed in the transportation of the ore the Steel corporation occupies an extremely commanding position in the iron and steel industry. Indeed, insofar as the Steel corporation's position in the entire iron and steel industry is of monopolistic character it is chiefly through its control of ore holdings and the transportation of ore."

The report is the first of three parts of findings by the bureau of corporations in an exhaustive inquiry into the steel industry.

DANDRUFF, FALLING HAIR STOPPED

Harmless, Old-Fashioned Remedy Brings Back Color to Gray Hair and Makes It Grow.

How many old-fashioned remedies are being used, which goes to show that it is hard to improve some of our grandmothers' old-time, tried remedies. For instance, for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy nothing equals our grandmothers' "sage tea." Although, by the addition of sulphur and other ingredients, this old-fashioned brew has been made more effective as a scalp tonic and color restorer.

Nowadays, when our hair comes out or gets faded or gray, instead of going to the garden or garret for herbs and making the "tea" ourselves, we simply go to the nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy.

Druggists are authorized to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special Agent, Koch Pharmacy.

Everybody Knows Something About Lumber Values

these days, but the homebuilder who listens to the cry of "wait until lumber is cheaper" is not apt to be any nearer his goal on his deathbed than he is today. The Government recommends TIMBER CONSERVATION and this alone is proof that lumber has a fixed value.

Our years of experience in buying and selling lumber lead us to advise our friends that NOW'S THE TIME TO BUILD. There's but one crop of timber for most of us. If you contemplate a new home we want to talk with you—we have all grades of lumber. The lowest quality starts at good and goes up. Give us a call and learn the facts about these lumber values.
